

As the school year comes to an end, you are probably planning all of the wonderful things you want to do during your vacation, but let me give you some suggestions for some great summer reading and some tips so you can get a head start on your AR reading for the next school year.

- Go to the public library. You can find a wide selection of books for free, and they can tell you what books are AR books.
- Remember, Montgomery Public Schools has access to every single AR test so you may own a book that has an AR test or you can buy a book at a bookstore. Try Walmart, too.

- If you want to see if one of your own books is an AR book check out this website.
www.arbookfind.com
It is an awesome website because it will tell you all the AR information you need to know about a book.

- After you read the book, take notes about it. Just write a few sentences about the book. Answer these questions:
Who was the book about?
What was the book about?
When did the story take place?
Where did the story take place?
Why did events happen?
Keep this in your book and review it right before you take your test when you come back to school.
