Summer Reading for Students entering K-5

A note of caution about the early reader books-please do not expect your child to be able to read these books independently. Use the following list of suggested authors and titles to select books that appeal to your child. As you share these selections with your child, encourage your reader to participate as they are able. Repetition and rhythm are great ways to encourage your reader to participate in the stories you are reading. Read at least 10 of these books and record them on the attached reading log. This reading log will be turned in on the first day of school and counted as a reading grade for the first nine weeks.
